What is Antwerp Design Week?

Antwerp Design Week brings together Belgian and international design in unique locations in and around Antwerp, from hidden spaces to impressive headquarters. The city itself becomes your design surprise in pocket size.

The event features two complementary programs that speak to both the industry professionals (B2B) and the wider design lover community (B2C), attracting visitors from near and far.

This year, our goal is to showcase design pieces from established commercial brands to young designers and high end galleries, expect a diverse and surprising mix of design.

What to expect during edition 2026?

Antwerp Design Week 2026 marks a major next step for the event. Compared to previous editions, this year feels larger, more international and more connected than ever before. ## Focus on Belgian Design

Antwerp Design Week 2026 brings together a rich mix of stories from brands, makers, designers and artists, showing the diversity of Belgian design today. Not as one single style, but as a landscape of craftsmanship, materials, creativity and collaboration.

A strong thread throughout this year's edition is the collaboration with Belgian designers. Across collections, brands reveal not only new products, but also the dialogue between designer and maker, heritage and innovation.

Wool & Wire collaborates with Antwerp architect Luc Binst on a rug collection inspired by the Aequor building on Het Eilandje. Unperfect Design and Atelier Maqua transform reclaimed Ardennes slate into poetic sculptures with the COHESION series. At XLBoom, Alain Gilles designed the sculptural glass collection Gusto, inspired by melting ice. TOOON. works together with Axel Enthoven and Mathias De Ferm, while Serax translates the colourful world of artist Shurleey into ceramic objects. PURE by Jasaco x Marylène Madou merges art and floral design into expressive silk bouquets. At Pomax, collaborations with Antoinette Dewinter and Patricia Rommens bring together sculptural forms, symbolism and natural textures. Paveau and Mieke Dierckx create a dialogue between leather goods and glassware, while Paul Rogers and Studio Segers introduce the organic FLOK coffee table.

Belgian creativity also shines through Morpho by Tomorrowland, developed under the creative direction of Dieter Vander Velpen together with Belgian makers such as Ethnicraft, Atelier Vierkant and rvb®. Kvadrat Raf Simons introduces a playful kids collection, while Ju collaborates with Studio Emiel Brusselmans on sculptural lighting in mouthblown glass.

Other collaborations include Jean Duruisseau with Haz'Art Agency, RV Architects with Fontein & Bova, Nicholas Erweyaert with Dauby, Mathias De Ferm with Betaco and Jeroen Broucx with Atelier Nilsen.

Together, these projects show Belgian design as layered, expressive and constantly evolving. Rooted in craftsmanship, yet always looking forward.

Our ambassadors

Wendy & Vincent, AIM Architecture

Activations during Antwerp Design Week

At Antwerp Design Week 2026, visitors discover more than design alone. Across the city, brands transform their showrooms into welcoming spaces filled with music, food, talks, workshops and immersive experiences.

At Auping, the Dreamlab invites visitors to slow down and disconnect through a calming sleep and sound experience together with JBL. At the historic Felixpakhuis, the Fedustria Hub and Best of Belgium combine iconic Belgian design with cocktails, food and networking in one vibrant setting.

Throughout the week, brands host apero moments, tapas evenings, coffee bars, live music sessions and intimate gatherings that turn showrooms into social destinations.

Visitors can join pilates sessions, lighting workshops, masterclasses and talks, or simply enjoy good coffee, snacks and carefully curated goodie bags along the way.

Some exhibitors focus on immersive storytelling. ROOM SERVICE creates layered experience rooms and cocktail evenings together with AERIS, while Wool & Wire opens a tactile "Living Showroom" where visitors can discover the full journey from wool to finished rug.

Craftsmanship also becomes part of the experience. Made by Theuns reveals the full production process behind its furniture, while Haz'Art Agency brings international makers and designers to Antwerp for direct encounters with visitors.

From outdoor living installations to wine tastings, soft serve moments and live walkthroughs with designers, hospitality becomes part of the design language itself.

At ADW 2026, design is not only something you see. It is something you experience.
