

Mobitec at Antwerp Design Week 2026

Design as a lived experience

At Antwerp Design Week 2026, Mobitec moves beyond a traditional product presentation. Together with Cosentino and a curated selection of brands, the Cosentino Showroom in Antwerp becomes a place designed to be experienced.

Throughout the week, visitors are invited into a program that blends design with everyday life: from morning coffee sessions to creative moodboard workshops with Hilde Francq, and even a Pilates session. The intention is simple – to create a space where people don't just look at design, but spend time with it.

Within this context, Mobitec presents its new 2025/26 collections. Rather than focusing on individual pieces, the collection reflects a broader vision of contemporary living: warm, adaptable and designed for real life.

At the center stands Olea, a sculptural table defined by soft lines and refined proportions. First introduced during Milan Design Week, Olea marks the beginning of Mobitec's collaboration with Cosentino and the integration of Dekton surfaces. The project brings together material performance, durability and a quiet, tactile design language.

This collaboration reflects a shared approach: creating products that are not only aesthetically relevant, but also meaningful in everyday use.

The choice of the Cosentino Showroom is intentional. It is not a neutral backdrop, but a space where materials, architecture and design are already in dialogue – providing the right context to present Mobitec's vision.

Links

- Website: www.mobitec.be
- LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/company/mymobitec>
- Instagram: <https://www.instagram.com/mymobitec/>
- Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/mymobitec>
- Pinterest: <https://www.pinterest.com/mymobitec/>

Press contact

Nils Hensen, Head of Marketing marketing@mobitec.be